Turno August 2026 – Present
Junior Product Manager Boston, MA

- Owned Guest Chat, an AI-powered guest messaging product, end to end: wrote PRDs, prioritized the Jira backlog each sprint, and analyzed data from 248 onboarded hosts to convince the co-CEO to refocus the roadmap on activation, earning an invitation to present the strategy to the C-suite.

- Orchestrated a multi-agent AI workflow, connecting Claude to Looker, Confluence, and BigQuery and pulling codebase context from Devin in Slack, to independently analyze code, data, and documentation and pinpoint issues like a stale production LLM prompt that was degrading AI-generated replies.

IBM May 2026 – July 2026
Business Transformation Consultant – Data Platforms Durham, North Carolina

- Mapped the end-to-end clinical model feature-edit workflow through SME interviews and process-flow analysis, quantified a manual code-finding bottleneck, then designed and built an AI agent on Snowflake that cut that step by 93% and scoped a phased rollout projected to reduce total feature-edit time by 74%.
- Led product strategy for an IBM Consulting capstone, owning the roadmap, horizon planning, personas, and user stories for an AI-powered clinical workflow platform projected to return 4.4M annual clinical hours to patient care; placed top 5 of 29 teams.
- Engineered an automated export sheet within a client-facing tracking tool that cut estimated time to answer a client request from 4 hours to 5 minutes, then authored the user guide and training that equipped client managers to run it independently.
